Last Night at the Opera House. That famous laughable rage "Skipped by the Light of the Moon," which was given at the Opera House last evening attracted a good audience. The farcical invention brimful as it is of songs, specialties and bright catchy music, made the audience laugh continually and thereby pleased. It is an extravagant comedy full of action, novel situations and entangled complications, and is fairly well handled by a number of versatile ladics and gentlemen who have drawn upon all sources, like the authors, to make the piece go. It will be repeated at a matinee this afterneou and sgain this evening.

The Second Branch was called to order shortly after 8 o'clock by President Sweeney. The calling of the roll showed the following members absent: Meesire, Butts, Clator, Peterson, Schrebe, Shanley, Vockier and Yahn. The reading of the minutes was discensed with by general consent, Clerk Bowen not having had time to complete the voluminous and lengthy record of last Tuesday evening's meeting.

day evening it was engaged in considering the ordinance in relation to the man ing the ordinance in relation to the management of the new gablage and night soil crematory. This was taken up the Grat thing, as unfinished business, last evening. Mr. Tracy moved to postpone indefinitely further consideration of the ordinance. Mr. Gilleland wanted to know the reason for this motion. Mr. Tracy said that the construction of the ordinance was go very crude that no end of amendwas so very crude that no oud of amend ments were made necessary, and that the making of them and the passing of the or-making of them and the passing of the ordinance would cenetime more time that this Council had'at its dispost, and as all unfluished business would expire with the Council, the time spent on the ordinance would be so much time lost.

Mr. Harrell was of the opinion that the ordinance should be considered to the end and then either passed or killed. Colonel Caldwell asked Mr. Tracy for further recspans for his desiring to pastone. Mr. sons for his desiring to postpone. Mr Tracy referred to the time in 1876 when Harry Smith and one or two others were riven practically a monopoly of the busines and the bowl that that action of Counc and the howl that that action of Conneil occasioned. In 1880 that objectionable ordinance was changed; now, Mr. Tracy stated, the crematory ordinance under consideration, proposed granting a few almost as large a monopoly as that enjoyed by Smith years before; it was provided that from tanks, patent pumps, on which royalties would be charged, and other expensive appliances must be need, all of royalties would be charged, and other expensive appliances must be used, all of which would crowd out the poorer hadlers.

Mr. Hildreth thought that it would be a confession of weakness to abandon the ordinance at this stage, and a large majority of the Branch benegured with him in this view. So the struggle with the ordinance was once more commenced and about 10 o'clock it was adopted, but in such a mangled condition that it is doubt-ful if Dr. Garrison will recognize it; what it will look like when the First has

The alibis they proved were so strong that Commissioner Forbes had no hesitancy in releasing them, even though two men swore positively that McCann was the man who had victimized them. Meeers. StcCann and McCarty were represented by lawyers Dovener and Elson, and they were accompanied to the Commissioner's office by the company of friends and witnesses that had come down from Pittsburgh the night before—with the avowed intention of standing and unusual event. stuck to his assertion that McCann was the man. Others said there was no resemblance to be found in either McCann or McCarty to the two wanted.

Then the Pittsburgh witnesses were introduced; there was the bather who shaved McCann, the proprietor of the place, an attache of the restaurant where he ate his support the man who sold clear to the attache of the restaurant where he ato his supper, the man who sold cigars to the two, men who had talked with them, and taken all in all there was enough testimony of a good reliable nature to prove alibis ten times over. It is clearly a most peculiar case of mistaken identity. Commissioner Forbes referred to it as such in discharging the two men; at the same time he regretted that such a lamentable mistake had occurred. Harriell and Hoffmann persisted in identifying McCann as the man that was in their places. The private car of James McGra, general manager of all the Pennsylvania Company's lines, was here yesterday with a number of cificials of the road; and two private cars with a number of officials of the Baltimore & Ohio road, both east and west, were here yesterday. afternoon at his residence on the National road three miles east of St. Clairsville will take place at 11 o'clock this morning. His daughter, Mrs. D. W. Luke, died unexpectedly last Sunday night at her residence in Grand Forks, Dakota, and her remains, accompanied by her husband, recched her old home Thursday morning when the fact of her death and the arrival of her body was first made known to Mr. Brown. The shock was too great and he soon began to sink and expired as stated. The funeral of Mrs. Luke had been announced to take place yesterday afternoon from the U. P. church at St. Clairsville, but the programme was changed, and father and daughter will by laid to rest at the same time. It will be a sad and unusual event.
